The Web pages for the ASTRA project were published 18th October 2020 on www.jyu.fi/astra. In December 2020 we also got a new domain www.astra-sw-network.eu for the project web pages. Both domains are functioning.

The web pages have now following parts:

- "Astra" provides a summary of the projects research field
- "Call for applications" advertises the call for applications for the ESRs
- "Open positions" includes detailed descriptions of all the 15 ESR positions
- "FAQ" provides answers for the frequently asked questions of the applicants
- "Research Consortium" introduces the main supervisors and the beneficiary universities and research organisations involved in the project
- "Contacts" provides the contact information for those who want to get in contact with the project staff. The e-mail address astra-project@jyu.fi is monitored by the local management support team.

The web pages will be further developed. There will be a blog and more information about the research, events, partner organisations and the early-stage researchers.

Applying Sustainability Transition Research in Social Work tackling Major Societal Challenge of Social Inclusion - ASTRA

A sustainable social foundation for human life can only develop in an inherent interdependence with the overall ecological ceiling and regenerative economy. ASTRA paves the way for a radically new approach to tackle the major societal challenges faced in the practice of social work. This is done by combining transdisciplinary sustainability transition research, policies and practices in social work.

The combination creates a novel scientific domain and establishes new transformative standards of social work doctoral training in Europe. Within this frame, the recruited Early Stage Researchers (ESRs) focus in their research on the challenge of social inclusion of young people in precariousness situations as well as people with a migration background in vulnerable communities.

Social media presence

The project does not yet have any social media accounts. At the moment, we are using the social media accounts of the member organisations and communication officers help in communicating about the start of the project and about the recruitment call of 15 early-stage researchers. We have a plan to publish a Facebook page in February 2021 or March 2021.
